

rules and procedures

Back when covid started in spring we really didn't need to do anything but when it entered the US people started saying that wearing a mask will slow the spread but others said it didn't work. Then they proved it worked and then everyone needed to wear them they also said staying 6 feet will protect you. Then the closed schools and some work. As covid climbed they said large gatherings had to stop and told people to stay at home. They closed restaurants for a while and then made it pick up only. The only rules that affected me was the stay at home orders because I couldn't see my friends although I just quarantined in my neighborhood and hung with everyone there. The mask affected me only when I left my neighborhood. It was very weird with all these rules but it slowed the spread.
