Philippe Sands offers a unique account of the daily lives of Otto Von Wachter, a senior Nazi official and his wife Charlotte. Sands unveils a fascinating insight into this fugitive's life before and during the war, on the run and then sheltered by dark forces working within the Vatican. What happened to Otto von Wachter? Philippe Sands has a personal need to find out. Eventually the door is unlocked to the mystery that haunts Wachter's youngest son who continues to believe his father was a good man.

Already a best seller in the UK one week after its release, The Ratline reads like a John le Carre thriller.

This free event is essential viewing for anyone concerned with the question of the nature of good and evil and justice.
