

May 15, 2020

2020 the year that my friends and I waited for. Finally, being 21 and celebrating but sadly instead alongside with everyone's world including mine has flipped upside down. Celebrating is not an option anymore because of Corona Virus for a while. Everything has been cancelled. We haven't been in school since March. Festivals have been cancelled, trips have been cancelled, graduations, proms, weddings, and much more have been cancelled. Quarantine birthdays started to become a thing. Bunch of people meet up at one spot and decorate their car and then drive past the birthday boy/girl as a little parade. To show someone that we care for them and would like to celebrate them. Every day is the same class, homework, spend time with family. I miss seeing my friends and going places. Miss sitting at a restaurant, going to the mall, going to a beach, and more. Hopefully this will pass by really quick and things will go back to normal.
