

Additional Help

The Trump administration also took important administrative action to expand the use of telemedicine to improve and ensure access to quality health care.

The administration also moved Tax Day from April 15 to July 15 so taxpayers and businesses can have additional time to file and make payments without interest or penalties.

Meanwhile, many financial institutions have taken steps to help consumers with loans, credit cards and mortgages. Programs vary by institution so please contact your institution for more information about programs that may benefit you and your family. Do not stop or delay payments but do contact your bank or lender if you are experiencing a COVID-19 related hardship. They may be able to help.
