Submission 1 – title – “Travelers are Flocking to Airbnb, Vrbo more than hotels during Covid-19 pandemic. But Why?”

Description and importance - This article claims that people are so desperate to go on summer vacations that they are flocking to AirBnBs and Vrbo spaces. I see importance in this article because it shines light to the ways people are finding loopholes to social distancing and closed borders. Many people need to get away for their mental health, and some use these opportunities to throw parties and blatantly break the rules. Whatever their reasons may be this article highlights the surge in AirBnB and Vrbo usage.

Submission 2 – title – “The New Pandemic Flash Point: Your Vacation”

Description and importance - This story explores the question of whether or not there is an acceptable form of travel in the midst of Covid. It is an opinion piece focusing on a man who travels regardless of regulations and shut downs. He tells his story of the backlash he is receiving from both his professional and personal life. He is skeptical about the severity of the pandemic and does not realize the impact this traveling could cause. This is an important piece because it shows the world through the eyes of a traveling skeptic. Someone who may be spreading the virus while being asymptomatic. This article explores the realms of acceptability in travel and asks the reader if there is any form of travel that is acceptable these days.

Submission 3 – title – “Texas family’s ‘staycation’ recreates cancelled Disney vacation at home amid COVID 19 closure”

Description and importance – I think this is a great article that shows the resilience of people during trying times. The Hern family in Texas was all ready for their trip to Disney when Covid struck and cancelled their trip. They would not let that get them down through, this video shows not only their love for Disney but their creativity and positive attitude while they recreated what their trip might have looked like. This is such a great depiction of not allowing social distancing to change your positive life, of going with the flow and making the best of a tough situation.
