Journal of the Plague Year Internship

The Journal of the Plague Year (JOPTY) archive is working to document the Covid pandemic and the many ways it has changed and reshaped our world. With my collection of “motherhood,” I am hoping to document and preserve stories of mothers from all different angles and walks of life. I am looking for new mothers, stay at home mothers, mothers dealing with remote learning, working mothers, and every mother in between. It is crucial to preserve your story for generations to come to show the resilience of motherhood in especially trying times like these. I invite mothers from all walks of life, regardless of circumstances, to submit to the archive. Even if you feel like your journey is not significant or is not as difficult as other mothers, I invite you to share your story.

Please submit an image, video, snapchat, tik tok, text, or voice recording that allows your story to be heard and recorded to <https://covid-19archive.org/s/archive/page/Share> If you have any questions on how to post or what to share, feel free to reach out to me at asramos2@asu.edu Please add the hashtag #COVIDmom to your submission.
