

Dear Amy,

The Interfaith Center is now online. To attend events virtually email interfaith@suffolk.edu to receive a Zoom invitation. The Reverend Amy L. Fisher is also available for counseling appointments via Zoom. Email her at interfaith@suffolk.edu to set up an appointment

This week is full of religious holydays. Wednesday evening marks the beginning of Passover, a Jewish holyday that commemorates Jewish liberation from slavery in Egypt. In addition, this week is Holy Week for Protestants and Roman Catholics, culminating in Easter Sunday, which celebrates the resurrection of Jesus Christ and marks the end of Lent.

For information on upcoming religious holydays, see the Suffolk religious holydays calendar here.

Sincerely,
The Interfaith Center

Contemplative Mysticism

Thursdays, 3:00PM, Interfaith Center, Online!

This week is the first week of our final section, Contemplative Drawing. We'll be exploring art as meditation and spiritual practice. Have paper and a pen or pencil ready, and join us on Zoom to draw together.

BOOK OF THE WEEK:

The Book of Kells

By Bernard Meehan

Our book of the week is The Book of Kells, which is a beautifully illustrated 9th century manuscript, containing the Gospels and other prefatory texts. Believed to be originally created in 800 AD, this translation combines extravagant iconographic illustrations that meant to embellish the textual content. The original, written in Latin, is considered to be one of Ireland's finest national treasures.
