Journal Week 5

The prompt this week is asking how we can increase participation in the JOTPY Archive. I'm guessing we do not have much of a budget. But a commercial would be great wouldn't it? That would be a fantastic way to increase participation. I know what we have done. This summer I helped Chris Twing collect contacts for HBCU and cultural museums and centers to expand participation. I wonder how that turned out?

I know students have shared calls on social media. That is such an individual and limited reach though. Specific to the call or the persons friend groups. I deleted all my social media accounts when the world went lopsided. Not good for my mental health. I wonder though if a social media campaign might help garner participation for the archive.
