

Peter Bundy, author of the entries entitled, “Hermit Herald” is a 1962 graduate of Trinity College in Hartford, Ct. After college he served as an officer in the Air Force, subsequently becoming a Special Agent with the FBI for five years. In the early 1970s he moved into commercial banking, joining Chemical Bank. He retired in 2004, the bank, by that time having become J.P. Morgan, Chase. Peter and Per Andersen co-authored a book, “The Knot of King Gordius” in 2016, chronicling the search for his birth parents. Peter and his wife, Marilyn, reside in Gulf Stream, Florida.

The Hermit Herald came into being on March 19, 2020 just as everything was starting to close down in our part of Florida and I could feel the tedium setting in. I remembered having written a long paper in college based on “Annus Mirabilis, Year of the Plague and Fire, 1666”, by John Dryden. The thought popped into my head, why not keep a journal of what is happening during this crazy year? Hermit (because I’m essentially a shut in) Herald presents my own views on what is happening around the world based on what I see, read and hear – everything from the corona virus, to world events, to sports, and more. The endeavor keeps me active and off the street.
