

There once was a two tribes one trib was A tribe of humans and the other one was a tribe of goblins. The goblins and the humans friendship was broken and had not been good for dozens of years. That was until the goblins were given a gift from the sky. This gift was one spisificly chosen for the goblins to have. The gods thought the goblins would give it to the tribe of men lead by their leader Ben. His heart was frozen so he was really mean Ben did not think the men and goblins had even rights. He hated goblins for no reason. Ben told everyone in the village to teach their children to not talk to goblins. He hated the goblins because they had destroyed his garden seven years ago. The eleven worst and meanest goblins destroyed the garden. So Ben made goblins no longer citizens of the tribe anymore. And so the goblins were mad at the eleven goblins beaches of what happend. So all of the goblins got into the kitchen and made Ben some good chicken and so all of the sudden the goblin's gave Ben the chicken again and they all became friends again. Many years later diggers would find this marked on stone in a cave.

“Goblin give chicken to ben.”

THE END.